About Cyprus

Cyprus, the third-largest island in the Mediterranean, covers an area of 9,251 sq. km and is located in the northeastern corner of the Mediterranean Sea, 300 km north of Egypt and 360 km southeast of Rhodes. The island features a varied coastline, rocky and indented in the north with sandy beaches in the south, and is home to the Pentadaktylos and Troodos mountain ranges, with fertile plains in between. As of 2012, Cyprus had a population of 952,100, predominantly Greek Cypriots, alongside Turkish Cypriots and foreign residents. With a history dating back to the ninth millennium B.C., Cyprus has seen the influence of multiple civilizations, including the Phoenicians, Greeks, Romans, Byzantines, and Ottomans, before gaining independence from British rule in 1960. The island's flag, featuring a copper-colored map and olive branches on a white background, symbolizes peace and its historical ties to copper. Cyprus enjoys a Mediterranean climate with hot, dry summers and mild, wet winters, and its cuisine reflects its rich cultural history, combining elements from the Middle East, Asia Minor, and Venetian traditions. The island also boasts a long tradition of winemaking, with Commandaria being one of the oldest wines in the world, renowned since ancient times and enjoyed by figures such as Richard the Lionheart and the Crusaders.

The Venue

St. Raphael Resort is located on one of the most renowned beaches in Limassol, only a short coastal drive from the lively centre of town, approximately 10 minutes away. The Larnaca International Airport is 35 minutes away, and Paphos International Airport is 55 minutes away. There are shops, restaurants and bars within walking distance and a bus stop exactly outside the hotel.

This carefully chosen, tranquil location with the calm sea at your doorstep and the town only a few moments away; has convenient access to the island's motorway. Any other coastal town, mountain village or tourist attraction is hardly more than an hour's drive away.
